Information Communication Technologies are widely used in our daily life such as a city's infrastructure development, such as large scale data centres, building and architectural modelling, optimization on electric power generation and distribution, and many other disciplines.

"ICT Conference 2019 – Tech-Pillars for Tomorrow", aims to provide a forum for the government officials, university researchers, and key industry professionals to share on the government policy, the latest development and applications, as well as the opportunities and threats in the future ICT era. Update information for the ICT Conference 2019 is available in http://ict2019.hkeco.net.
